seven is your last year of school because 7 8 9 lol

If I could bring one thing to school from primary I would bring my teachers. Coming into year 7 I felt like I was going into prep.

Transition was pretty smooth. If I could bring something from primary school I would bring a teacher and swap them for a teacher. But I brought my teddy instead.

I felt upset about leaving my friends and teachers but I look forward to school work.

You have to be more organised and you know what you have to do each day.

The difference between primary and secondary is that you have a timetable.

I think that it was different. A hard but good different. But we do not like the homework. We are not used to homework.

I think that what work you do not do in school you need to do at home.
